

750 APPLICANTS REGISTERED FOR COMPENSATION

With more than 800 persons being received at the office about 750 Adams county men and women have registered as applicants for unemployment compensation at the local employment service office in the Murphy building on Baltimore street.

Clerks in charge of registration here explained that while the peak of the rush in registration here is past, the total of 750 registered does not indicate the total number of persons in this county who are unemployed. They state that many claimants from the eastern and southern sections of the county have gone to the Hanover employment office to be listed for the compensation. The law permits registration at the nearest office.

Monday was the busiest day with 257 persons being listed. Tuesday saw nearly 200 more. Less than 150 new claims were received Wednesday and Thursday's total was close to 100. A number of the visitors at the office during the last two days have been persons who appeared earlier in the week at the height of the rush and who were only listed at that time and asked to return later to complete their registration forms.

A number of persons have appeared at the office who were clearly not eligible for the compensation, it was stated, and most of those persons were simply listed as available for employment. In all cases where there is doubt as to the eligibility of the applicant, the person is registered and the claim forwarded for examination at the Chambersburg area office or at Harrisburg.

As the unemployed are registered they are notified to re-appear on the same day each week they are unemployed so that the records may be kept up to date. On the first appearance social security cards, lay-off notices and a list of employers since January 1, 1937 were presented for examination.

While the weekly return visits are being made the employment office has the duty of seeking work for the applicants it has listed. If work is not secured for the applicant, the first benefit check will be mailed to him following the close of his fourth week of unemployment in this year. The checks will range between $7.50 and $15 a week. No one can obtain more than 13 weekly payments in a benefit year.

Borough Police Made 290 Arrests During Last Year

GETTYSBURG borough police officers made a total of 290 arrests during 1937 for a wide variety of crimes that ranged from disorderly conduct counts and minor motor code violations to a charge of manslaughter, the report of Chief of Police Lloyd E. Wisler revealed today.

Those arrests were made during the approximately 12,000 hours the local officers were on duty. Last year the officers traveled about 27,000 miles by automobile on regular town patrols and on special missions within the borough in connection with their police duties. Chief Wisler estimated that the members of the local force had covered at least 6,000 miles on foot.

Most numerous among the arrests were motor code violations and 164 of them were recorded, while a total of 209 red tickets were issued to motorists who violated borough parking regulations. Most of the arrests listed as "motor code violations" were for red traffic lights and stop signs.

Leading the list of arrests for other types of crimes were arrests on disorderly conduct charges which numbered 62. Most of the defendants charged with that offense were intoxicated. Other arrests were listed as follows: Assault and battery, five; tampering with an automobile, one; peddling without a license, one; aggravated assault and battery, one; vagrancy, two; disturbing the peace, one; non-support, two; larceny, six; fugitives apprehended, six; serious charges, three; operating without a driver's license, four; hit and run driving, one; reckless driving, seven; worthless check charges, one; fraud, one; burglary, one; over weighted trucks, three; surety of the peace, one and inciting to riot, one.

The single charge of involuntary manslaughter was filed against John D. Settle, Seven Stars, in the death of Mrs. Sara E. Stock last January. Settle was later acquitted. Earl Trimmer, now serving a sentence in the county jail on a burglary charge, was arrested by a borough officer for robbing a local pool-room in December.

The report covers the work of Chief Wisler, officers Charles W. Culp and D. J. Wolff, while the latter was on duty before the police car crash last October. The duties performed by Officer Glenn Guise, part time officer during the greater part of the year and other special officers also are included.

RECLUSE, HIT BY CAR ON DEC. 26, DIES IN HANOVER

Jacob Heist, 73-year-old recluse of Abbottstown R. 1 who was badly hurt when struck by an automobile near his home Sunday evening, December 26, died this morning at 4:10 o'clock in the Hanover General hospital where he has been a patient since the time of the accident.

Shortly before noon today Dr. L. U. Zech, York county coroner, called Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, and asked that he conduct an investigation of the accident inasmuch as it took place in Adams county.

The victim of the accident was unmarried.

His right arm was badly mangled when he was struck by a car operated by Daniel Shank, 18, Biglerville R. 2, who had been staying at 211 Locust street, Hanover. Heist was walking along the edge of the Hanover-Carlisle road about four and a half miles north of Hanover when the accident occurred. He was rushed to the hospital in the Hanover ambulance and upon his admittance was found to be in a serious condition from shock.

Investigation of the mishap at the time of its occurrence revealed that Heist had left the home of I. J. Miller, Hanover R. 3 and was walking north along the east side of the road. Shank also going north, swerved his car to the right in an effort to avoid striking the pedestrian but the left bumper struck Heist and threw him to the side of the highway.

The body has been taken in charge by a Hanover undertaker but up to noon no arrangements had been made for funeral services.

750 APPLICANTS REGISTERED FOR COMPENSATION

With more than 800 persons being received at the office about 750 Adams county men and women have registered as applicants for unemployment compensation at the local employment service office in the Murphy building on Baltimore street.

Clerks in charge of registration here explained that while the peak of the rush in registration here is past, the total of 750 registered does not indicate the total number of persons in this county who are unemployed. They state that many countians from the eastern and southern sections of the county have gone to the Hanover employment office to be listed for the compensation. The law permits registration at the nearest office.

Monday was the busiest day with 257 persons being listed. Tuesday saw nearly 200 more. Less than 150 new claims were received Wednesday and Thursday's total was close to 100. A number of the visitors at the office during the last two days have been persons who appeared earlier in the week at the height of the rush and who were only listed at that time and asked to return later to complete their registration forms.

A number of persons have appeared at the office who were clearly not eligible for the compensation, it was stated, and most of those persons were simply listed as available for employment. In all cases where there is doubt as to the eligibility of the applicant, the person is registered and the claim forwarded for examination at the Chambersburg area office or at Harrisburg.

As the unemployed are registered they are notified to re-appear on the same day each week they are unemployed so that the records may be kept up to date. On the first appearance social security cards, lay-off notices and a list of employers since January 1, 1937 were presented for examination.

While the weekly return visits are being made the employment office has the duty of seeking work for the applicants it has listed. If work is not secured for the applicant, the first benefit check will be mailed to him following the close of his fourth week of unemployment in this county. The checks will range between $7.50 and $15 a week. No one can obtain more than 13 weekly payments in a benefit year.

The entertainment feature of the evening was furnished by members of Mary Gettys lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, and included piano duets by Mrs. Harry H. Mrs. Mervin L. Sanders, noble grand of Mary Gettys lodge, of the Rebekah degree, extended an invitation to the association to hold its March meeting with the auxiliary. The invitation was accepted.

At the suggestion of Doctor Coble the January meeting next year will be postponed until the second full week of the month. This was suggested by reason of the fact that in most sections of the county a week of prayer is observed the first week and this action will relieve conflict with the church services.

Motorists Have Week to Get Tags

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP)—Revenue Secretary J. Griffith Boardman warned motorists today that they had only one week more to obtain their 1938 license plates.

RECLUSE, HIT BY CAR ON DEC. 26, DIES IN HANOVER

Jacob Heist, 73-year-old recluse of Abbottstown R. 1 who was badly hurt when struck by an automobile near his home Sunday evening, December 26, died this morning at 4:10 o'clock in the Hanover General hospital where he has been a patient since the time of the accident.

Shortly before noon today Dr. L. U. Zech, York county coroner, called Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, and asked that he conduct an investigation of the accident inasmuch as it took place in Adams county.

The victim of the accident was unmarried.

His right arm was badly mangled when he was struck by a car operated by Daniel Shank, 18, Biglerville R. 2, who had been staying at 211 Locust street, Hanover. Heist was walking along the edge of the Hanover-Carlisle road about four and a half miles north of Hanover when the accident occurred. He was rushed to the hospital in the Hanover ambulance and upon his admittance was found to be in a serious condition from shock.

Investigation of the mishap at the time of its occurrence revealed that Heist had left the home of I. J. Miller, Hanover R. 3 and was walking north along the east side of the road. Shank also going north, swerved his car to the right in an effort to avoid striking the pedestrian but the left bumper struck Heist and threw him to the side of the highway.

The body has been taken in charge by a Hanover undertaker but up to noon no arrangements had been made for funeral services.

Mother Forgives Daughter Who Killed Father

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 8 (AP)—Dorothy Schaefer, 18, awaiting grand jury action on a charge of slaying her father, was "forgiven" today by her mother and offered spiritual aid by the clergyman of the church in which she was a choir singer.

The comely, chestnut-haired girl was back in Hudson county jail after pleading innocent at her arraignment Friday on a charge of murder. She was accused of stabbing her father with a carving knife.

She appeared unperturbed in court when Police Sergeant Oscar Treger quoted her as saying: "I grabbed the knife to scare him (her father) so he would stop threatening mother and me."

Later the Rev. Samuel B. Brosius, pastor of All Souls English Evangelical Lutheran church, made several fruitless efforts to convey to her the words of her mother, Mrs. Adeline Schaefer: "Tell Dorothy I have forgiven her for what she has done."

Officials would not permit him to visit the girl.

BOROUGH PLANS 'CLEAN-UP' FROM JAN. 17 TO 21

Councilman Frank B. Slonaker, new chairman of the borough health committee, announced plans this morning for an early "spring" clean-up of the town to begin on January 17 and continue through January 21.

Arrangements for the collection of old Christmas trees, tin cans, ashes and all types of rubbish were made by Slonaker and his committee with the promise of the assistance of the local mosquito committee and the highway committee.

Appealing to the people of Gettysburg to co-operate in the early move to clean up Gettysburg in preparation for the great influx of visitors here later in the year, Councilman Slonaker and the other members of his committee—William H. Scott and C. W. Epley—asked that the rubbish be placed in the alleys promptly so that trucks and crews of men may remove it quickly.

It has been requested that tin cans be placed on a separate pile. Any type of rubbish will be handled if it is piled in alleys at the rear of properties. Even garbage will be handled if it is placed in containers.

The borough highway truck will be used for the work with the consent of J. Price Oylar, new chairman of that group, who has promised the health committee the full co-operation of his department.

Eleven men including a foreman and a truck driver will start the clean up work on Monday morning, January 17, and press the task to completion as rapidly as possible. The members of the health committee this morning emphasized the importance of having the rubbish in piles in the alleys so that it can be loaded quickly.

The eleven men to be assigned to the work are those that have been employed on mosquito eradication work here for recent months. Ralph Redding, mosquito project foreman, will serve as foreman of the week's clean up program. The truck that has been in use on the mosquito project also will be used in the collection of garbage and the crew of 11 men divided between that vehicle and the borough truck.

Slonaker declared this morning that he and his committee are anxious to have the town present the best appearance possible to win favorable comment from the thousands of visitors to come here this summer.

Council President Ray M. Hoffman complimented the health committee chairman and the members of his group for the promptness with which they "got down to work" after their appointments last Monday evening. "Cleaning up our town is a very important job," he stated. "The health committee is one of the first council groups to step into the new harness and prepare the town for the 75th anniversary crowds."

He also commended the members of the mosquito committee—C. W. Epley, former burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith and Fred G. Pfeffer—for their co-operation in the undertaking.

SPEEDERS COURT FOR 5 COUNTIES

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP)—A system of "roving" courts to punish Pennsylvania traffic speeders will open in 11 districts Monday, with three dozen offenders facing the possibility of losing their licenses for at least 90 days.

Governor George H. Earle authorized the courts in his decree that all drivers going more than 50 miles an hour should be punished.

Report to the Department of Revenue indicated about 100 arrests have been made since the Governor's edict went into force January 1.

The department explained that no particular city or town would be designated as the place of the court. Instead, motor police sub-stations will be used for hearing at sites most convenient for the drivers involved.

District 8 of the eleven speeder-court districts will comprise Dauphin, Cumberland, Adams, Franklin and York counties.

MOLESTED TRAFFIC SIGNS

This is the second time Barnitz has received police attention. On the first occasion he was accused of causing a disturbance in the Majestic theater by setting off an alarm clock during the showing of a picture.

TRIBUNAL TAKES NIXON APPEAL IN ADVISEMENT

Philadelphia, Jan. 8 (AP).—The state supreme court raised a question Friday on why Captain Thomas H. Nixon's second wife had not contested a divorce until after it was granted.

Before taking under advisement Nixon's appeal to have the divorce re-affirmed, Chief Justice John W. Kephart said to counsel for Nixon's second wife, former actress Annette Pinnerton:

"I'd like to know where we would get on divorce matters if that procedure followed."

The same day that the divorce was granted in Adams county court at Gettysburg, in 1935, Captain Nixon married his third wife—the former Anne Cooke, of Chevy Chase, Maryland. Twins were born to them and the couple is expecting a third child.

On grounds that the captain, now stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, was not legally a resident of Gettysburg, the Adams county court in 1936 revoked the divorce decree. The superior court upheld the order.

E. V. Buleit, attorney for the second Mrs. Nixon, told the court Friday she had been misled by a promise the captain would withdraw the action if she returned to him.

"She had notice of the action originally and it was up to her to follow it up," Justice William B. Linn commented.

Richard A. Brown, Nixon's counsel, said that the officer had "maintained an actual residence with his mother in Gettysburg since he was graduated from West Point in 1918" and denied that the purchase of a home in Washington in 1932 changed his residence.

U.S. DEVELOPS FAST DEFENSE FOR AIR RAIDS

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—The United States, whose air force is described as the most efficient in existence by James "All the World's Aircraft," has a second deadly answer to attacks from the air.

It is the army's anti-aircraft artillery, which, while lacking sadly in numerical strength, has displayed such technical progress that experts believe it is capable of making important military areas invulnerable to raids by hostile aircraft.

Military observers watching the modern units shatter aerial targets at extreme ranges with an uncanny skill, rate the United States among the world's leaders in the development of ground defenses against bombing planes.

Outstanding among the units of this invaluable branch of national defense is the 62nd coast artillery, whose mission is guarding metropolitan New York.

Capable of hurling more than three tons of flying steel per minute from its mechanically controlled guns, the regiment's practice operations drew from observers the report that "in material, training, and tactics, it is equal to or superior to similar units of foreign countries."

The secret of the anti-aircraft artillery's startling efficiency is in its closely guarded fire control equipment, $30,000 "mechanical brains" which compute from basic observations the position of enemy targets, and automatically aim the fast-firing cannon.

Through their use, skilled gun crews, relieved of the necessity of aiming their 3-inch guns manually, are able to fire them at the rate of 30 or more shots a minute, hurling 15-pound high explosive shells which literally blanket an area under fire with their deadly pellets.

At night sound detectors and searchlights coupled to the "mechanical brains" give the regiments equally deadly striking power.

Fully modernized, the modern anti-aircraft regiments move swiftly at speeds of 25 or more miles an hour, traveling in special trucks which carry the guns, men, and equipment. The 62nd, based at Fort Totten, Long Island, traveled 167,000 vehicle miles from January 1 to November 16 last year.

The 62nd is the only regular army regiment of anti-aircraft artillery available on the Atlantic coast. The Pacific coast has one regiment of one-third strength, while similar skeleton forces are based at Fort Crockett, Texas, and Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

30,000 ITALIANS WILL WORK ON FARMS IN REICH

Rome, Jan. 8 (AP).—Thirty thousand Italians will go to Germany in March to work as farm hands under an agreement between the two governments.

The arrangement announced today will absorb some of Italy's surplus farm labor and give Germany needed agricultural workers in the Reich's campaign to increase its food production.

German farm work normally attracts seasonal laborers from Italy and eastern Europe; but, under the new plan, Italians, instead of filtering into the country individually, will go as an organized work army and in large numbers.

The Fascist federation of farm workers, in announcing the agreement, said it would eliminate "hardships and humiliations" often encountered by Italian workers aboard and further cement Italo-German friendship and economic ties.

Men will be divided into groups of from 10 to 25 each, with a captain and interpreter. These leaders will themselves be farm workers.

The workers will receive food, lodging and the equivalent to about 40 cents a day in wages. They will have sick and disability insurance and the German government will pay their transportation.

They will sign up for the duration of the German agricultural season—which normally lasts about eight months.

REBELS WITHIN BESIEGED CITY ADMIT DEFEAT

Madrid, Jan. 8 (AP).—The agonies of thirst, of cold and of hunger in embattled Teruel today forced the surrender of more than 2,000 ragged insurgent soldiers and their wailing and weakened women and children.

For 17 days they stood against Government guns, fire and dynamite in guerrilla warfare, from building to building through the narrow and twisting streets of the old provincial capital, 160 miles east of Madrid.

A re-inforced insurgent army outside the city fought in vain to come to their rescue, and they bowed at last to the hardship of siege against their hideouts in an Asuncion hospital and the dynamite-wrecked Santa Clara church.

The unsuccessful rescuing army itself was encountering trouble—230 insurgents were captured during the battle about Muela De Teruel, outside Teruel, the Government said.

The capitulation was in sharp contrast to a previous dramatic siege—when about 1,000 insurgent troops and their kin were rescued by comrades after nearly ten weeks of government siege against their fortress, the Toledo Alcazar, in 1936.

A Government communiqué announced surrender of the Teruel garrison, trapped in the city by a sudden offensive of the Madrid army, on December 21. Teruel had been an important insurgent base for most of the nearly 18 months of Civil war.

Lieut. Col. Rey D'Harcourt, commander, led 1,500 of his troops and 500 women, children, aged and wounded from the hospital. Thirty-four insurgent soldiers surrendered from Santa Clara church.

Many were ill. They had not eaten for a week.

Emerging in groups of six, under a promise of safety as prisoners, all asked first for water. A number who had been underground during the siege fainted. Their condition was pitiable, the Government commander reported, and many were wounded. Some were unable to walk.

With capitulation of the main insurgent body within Teruel, the Government appeared definitely in control of the strategic front, which had been a menace to Government Valencia and the eastern coastal territory.

SAN FRANCISCO MAY GET ANOTHER BIG BRIDGE

San Francisco (AP).—This community recently completed the two largest bridges in the world at a cost exceeding $100,000,000, but apparently its bridge building activities are not over. The island city of Alameda has started negotiations for a $7,000,000 span linking it with the big bay bridge.

CAUSES OF AIR ACCIDENTS

San Francisco (AP).—An eight months' study of airline accidents has been completed by the Commonwealth club. Primary causes of plane crashes were listed as pilots' errors, too much dependence on blind flying, and failure or inadequacy of ground personnel. The latter item included both private and government weather services.

(1)—By substituting a state-wide comprehensive point of view for a narrow provincialism and local partisanship.

(2)—By establishing a carefully considered and continuous penal program, freed from shifting and sudden change, and modified only by need rising out of the growth and development of sound penological experience and practice.

(3)—By the selection of prison personnel on the basis of merit and qualifications and the impartation to the selected personnel of a security that will bring greater efficiency in service.

(4)—By coordinating and integrating the administration, management, training and educational program of all the institutions; substituting for units locally administered, and more or less isolated, a unified penal system in which each institution functions as a part of the whole.

Pennington recommended that the county jails system be dropped to provide closer cooperation between county and state institutions.

PLANES REPLACE DOGS IN PLATINUM HUNTING

Washington (AP).—Alaska's dog teams are too old fashioned for 20th century platinum prospectors. These modern miners are flying into the North by airplane, says Dr. J. B. Mertle, Jr., government geologist.

NIGHT SESSION THREAT FAILS TO HALT FILIBUSTER

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—Senators waging a parliamentary battle against the anti-lynching bill said today they had enough speeches on tap to prolong their filibustering tactics indefinitely.

Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, held out the threat of night sessions to choke off their oratory, but not even that, they said, could upset their schedule.

Opponents of the bill took heart from the vigorous attack Senator Borah (R-Idaho) made on the measure Friday. They said it gave powerful support of their contention the bill is unconstitutional and should be shelved.

The purpose of the opponents was plain—to continue, speech-making and parliamentary delays until pressure for President Roosevelt's legislative program would force proponents to side-track the anti-lynching proposal.

Upsetting the Senate's usual week-end rest, Barkley called a session for today and at the same time made the threat of night sessions.

The Senate, awaiting committee reports on farm and housing bills passed at the special session, had little before it beside the lynching bill.

The House, however, was to decide Monday whether to consider the Ludlow war referendum amendment. Speaker Bankhead headed the administration campaign to pigeon-hole the proposal.

The amendment would require approval by the people before this government could enter a war abroad.

NEW PENAL PLAN WOULD REPLACE COUNTY JAILS

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP).—A new Pennsylvania penal system to replace county jails with industrial farms and put the entire prison set-up under control of a high commissioner was considered today by the state government.

TRIBUNAL TAKES NIXON APPEAL IN ADVISEMENT

Philadelphia, Jan. 8 (AP).—The state supreme court raised a question Friday on why Captain Thomas H. Nixon's second wife had not contested a divorce until after it was granted.

Before taking under advisement Nixon's appeal to have the divorce re-affirmed, Chief Justice John W. Kephart said to counsel for Nixon's second wife, former Actress Annette Pinnerton:

"I'd like to know where we would get on divorce matters if that procedure followed."

The same day that the divorce was granted in Adams county court at Gettysburg, in 1935, Captain Nixon married his third wife—the former Anne Cooke, of Chevy Chase, Maryland. Twins were born to them and the couple is expecting a third child.

On grounds that the captain, now stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, was not legally a resident of Gettysburg, the Adams county court in 1936 revoked the divorce decree. The superior court upheld the order.

E. V. Bulett, attorney for the second Mrs. Nixon, told the court Friday she had been misled by a promise the captain would withdraw the action if she returned to him.

"She had notice of the action originally and it was up to her to follow it up," Justice William B. Linn commented.

Richard A. Brown, Nixon's counsel, said that the officer had "maintained an actual residence with his mother in Gettysburg since he was graduated from West Point in 1918" and denied that the purchase of a home in Washington in 1932 changed his residence.

U. S. DEVELOPS FAST DEFENSE FOR AIR RAIDS

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—The United States, whose air force is described as the most efficient in existence by James "All the World's Aircraft," has a second deadly answer to attacks from the air.

It is the army's anti-aircraft artillery, which, while lacking sadly in numerical strength, has displayed such technical progress that experts believe it is capable of making important military areas invulnerable to raids by hostile aircraft.

Military observers watching the modern units shatter aerial targets at extreme ranges with an uncanny skill, rate the United States among the world's leaders in the development of ground defenses against bombing planes.

Outstanding among the units of this invaluable branch of national defense is the 62nd coast artillery, whose mission is guarding metropolitan New York.

Capable of hurling more than three tons of flying steel per minute from its mechanically controlled guns, the regiment's practice operations drew from observers the report that "in material, training, and tactics, it is equal to or superior to similar units of foreign countries."

The secret of the anti-aircraft artillery's startling efficiency is in its closely guarded fire control equipment, $30,000 "mechanical brains" which compute from basic observations the position of enemy targets, and automatically aim the fast-firing cannon.

Through their use, skilled gun crews, relieved of the necessity of aiming their 3-inch guns manually, are able to fire them at the rate of 30 or more shots a minute, hurling 15-pound high explosive shells which literally blanket an area under fire with their deadly pellets.

At night sound detectors and searchlights coupled to the "mechanical brains" give the regiments equally deadly striking power.

Fully modernized, the modern anti-aircraft regiments move swiftly at speeds of 25 or more miles an hour, traveling in special trucks which carry the guns, men, and equipment. The 62nd, based at Fort Totten, Long Island, traveled 167,000 vehicle miles from January 1 to November 16 last year.

The 62nd is the only regular army regiment of anti-aircraft artillery available on the Atlantic coast. The Pacific coast has one regiment of one-third strength, while similar skeleton forces are based at Fort Crockett, Texas, and Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

BIG NUGGET FOUND

Quincy, Calif. (AP).—Memories of the quick fortunes of the early California gold rush were revived when John Pezalla, a miner, picked up an 11-ounce gold nugget near here. His find was worth about $385.

Richard Cullison, of Hilltown, spent Thursday night at the Baker home.

SAN FRANCISCO MAY GET ANOTHER BIG BRIDGE

San Francisco (AP).—This community recently completed the two largest bridges in the world at a cost exceeding $100,000,000, but apparently its bridge building activities are not over. The island city of Alameda has started negotiations for a $7,000,000 span linking it with the big bay bridge.

CAUSES OF AIR ACCIDENTS

San Francisco (AP).—An eight months' study of airline accidents has been completed by the Commonwealth club. Primary causes of plane crashes were listed as pilots' errors, too much dependence on blind flying, and failure or inadequacy of ground personnel. The latter item included both private and government weather services.

TICKLISH world situations will be main concern of Sir Robert Van Sittart, whose new non-political post in Britain's foreign office has been described as that of "duplicate foreign secretary." He will help formulate foreign policy.

NIGHT SESSION THREAT FAILS TO HALT FILIBUSTER

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—Senators waging a parliamentary battle against the anti-lynching bill said today they had enough speeches on tap to prolong their filibustering tactics indefinitely.

Majority Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, held out the threat of night sessions to choke off their oratory, but not even that, they said, could upset their schedule.

Opponents of the bill took heart from the vigorous attack Senator Borah (R-Idaho) made on the measure Friday. They said it gave powerful support of their contention the bill is unconstitutional and should be shelved.

The purpose of the opponents was plain—to continue speech-making and parliamentary delays until pressure for President Roosevelt's legislative program would force proponents to side-track the anti-lynching proposal.

Upsetting the Senate's usual weekend rest, Barkley called a session for today and at the same time made the threat of night sessions.

The Senate, awaiting committee reports on farm and housing bills passed at the special session, had little before it beside the lynching bill.

The House, however, was to decide Monday whether to consider the Ludlow war referendum amendment. Speaker Bankhead headed the administration campaign to pigeon-hole the proposal.

The amendment would require approval by the people before this government could enter a war abroad.

NEW PENAL PLAN WOULD REPLACE COUNTY JAILS

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP).—A new Pennsylvania penal system to replace county jails with industrial farms and put the entire prison set-up under control of a high commissioner was considered today by the state government.

The recommendation came in a report from John D. Pennington, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania Industrial school at Huntingdon and former Secretary of Welfare, submitted to Governor George H. Earle's commission studying probation and parole.

"A comprehensive and integrated penal program for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania requires centralized control and direction by a single executive," Pennington wrote. "Pennsylvania is one of only four states with large penal systems that cling to the inefficient system of administration by local boards of trustees."

"These boards have general direction of the property and management. Such direction as the Department of Welfare exercises through the secretary becomes effective only after unnecessary delay and much useless expenditure of time and energy and money."

He said this system was both "inefficient" and "wasteful."

Pennington, who resigned as Welfare secretary several months ago, said centralized control would remedy "these evils," in this way:

"(1)—By substituting a state-wide comprehensive point of view for a narrow provincialism and local partisanship.

"(2)—By establishing a carefully considered and continuous penal program, freed from shifting and sudden change, and modified only by need rising out of the growth and development of sound penological experience and practice.

"(3)—By the selection of prison personnel on the basis of merit and qualifications and the impartation to the selected personnel of a security that will bring greater efficiency in service.

"(4)—By coordinating and integrating the administration, management, training and educational program of all the institutions; substituting for units locally administered, and more or less isolated, a unified penal system in which each institution functions as a part of the whole."

Pennington recommended that the county jails system be dropped to provide closer cooperation between county and state institutions.

PLANES REPLACE DOGS IN PLATINUM HUNTING

Washington (AP).—Alaska's dog teams are too old fashioned for 20th century platinum prospectors. These modern miners are flying into the North by airplane, says Dr. J. B. Mertie, Jr., government geologist.

He estimates that platinum discoveries in Alaska may soon yield a tenth of the world's supply. RFC funds are being used to develop mines.

JAPS TRAIN GUNS ON FRENCH IN 2D POLICE BEATING

Shanghai, Jan. 8 (AP).—Cornell S. Franklin, American chairman of the Shanghai municipal council, protested strenuously today to Japanese Consul General Suemasa Okamoto against Japanese manhandling of international settlement police.

A member of the French police was struck today in the second international incident in two days. Japanese soldiers trained guns on French troops in the French concession for an hour.

After two British soldiers were beaten Friday the British commander, Major General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, protested to Japanese authorities, warning that a recurrence might lead to "gravest consequences."

French officials were strongly considering a formal protest against today's incident.

In Paris, however, a foreign office spokesman said France was "not alarmed" by the "incident."

Chinese press reports, meanwhile, said wharves, the railway station and public buildings had been destroyed by Chinese forces at Haichow, Kiangsu province, eastern terminus of the Lunghai trunk railroad, carrying out China's "scorched earth" policy of leaving the Japanese only ruins.

The belligerent show of force began today after a Chinese woman crossed into the French zone from the native district, Nantao, to obtain water.

Japanese prohibit departure from Nantao, and a Japanese sentry ran after the woman. He seized and struck her, said the French.

A policeman of Russian nationality in the concession intervened. He was struck in the face. Other Japanese soldiers rushed in at once, and started to drag the policeman across the boundary into Nantao.

The policeman slipped loose, whereupon nearly 100 of the Japanese troops gathered at the concession boundary and pointed rifles and a machine gun at the armed and indignant French troops.

Two armored cars rushed reinforcements.

While the potential fighters faced each other tensely, French Consul Pierre Auge took up the matter with the Japanese consul.

They reached an agreement which for the moment ended the incident with withdrawal of the troops.

The British policemen were slugged by Japanese soldiers in an asserted invasion of the British defense zone of the international settlement.

Telfer-Smollett was reported to have warned Japanese military officials that a recurrence might bring "gravest consequences."

(Rough handling of the policemen provoked sharp press criticism of Japan in London. The Daily Express went so far as to predict that diplomatic relations might be severed by Britain. The foreign office awaited an official report.

(The Express said the "usual apology" merely would cross any British protests. The Telegraph and Morning Post stressed that lack of control over the Japanese military was a contributing factor.

Reuters, British news agency, reported in a Shanghai dispatch that Japanese marines had occupied the British-owned new Asia hotel in the international settlement, and that two Union Jacks were hauled down.

(The London Daily Mail, commenting on slugging of the policemen, observed that "these deliberate outrages will have a further irritant effect upon relations between Japan and the powers already affected by Japanese actions in Shanghai.")

Meanwhile, the fury of the war centered 400 miles to the northwest of Shanghai along the east-west Lunghai railway, China's "last line of defense."

Japanese reported capture of Tsoehsien in their southward drive through Shantung province, designed to win control of the railway. Chinese denied its loss.

Eighteen Chinese airplanes, eight of them Russian-made, were shot down in an air raid at Nanchang, a Japanese naval spokesman said. The Japanese lost one pursuit plane.

Gettysburg high school's basketball team dropped its first game of the season in a hotly contested Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic league game at Mechanicsburg Friday evening, 19-17. The game required an extra period.

Both teams played strong defensive games and little scoring resulted. The only scoring in the first period was a foul each by Swope and Wright. Mechanicsburg took a 5-4 lead at half time when Sadler looped a goal and foul along with foul tosses by Stoner and Hendrian. Oylor scored a double-decker for Gettysburg.

Coach Forney's outfit took a 12-10 lead at the close of the third period but Mechanicsburg rallied to deadlock the count at 17-17 at the close of the game. In the extra period Vogelsohn scored a goal to give Mechanicsburg the decision.

Sam Swope put up a fine all-around game for the Maroons and led the scoring with six out of seven foul attempts. Sadler proved the scoring ace for the victors.

The Maroon reserves also dropped their first tilt of the year in the preliminary game to the Mechanicsburg scrubs, 36-20.

Both teams played strong defensive games and little scoring resulted. The only scoring in the first period was a foul call by Swope and Wright. Mechanicsburg took a 5-4 lead at half time when Sadler looped a goal and foul along with four fouls by Stoner and Hendrian. Oylor scored a double-decker for Gettysburg.

Coach Forney's outfit took a 12-10 lead at the close of the third period but Mechanicsburg rallied to deadlock the count at 17-17 at the close of the game. In the extra period Vogelsgood scored a goal to give Mechanicsburg the decision.

Sam Swope put up a fine all-around game for the Maroons and led the scoring with six out of seven foul attempts. Sadler proved the scoring ace for the victors.

Bullet Freshmen Upset Perkiomen

Paced by the goal tossing of Simon, former Bethlehem high star, who scored from all angles of the floor, the Gettysburg college freshman basketball team defeated a strong Perkiomen school quintet Friday evening in the local gymnasium, 45-44. Simon scored 25 points to be high man for the evening.

The Bullets led from start to finish but always found the visitors a serious threat. Perkiomen drew to within one-point of the locals in the last minute of play which kept the large crowd in an uproar until the final whistle sounded.

APOSTOLI WINS OVER STEELE

New York, Jan. 8 (AP).—Fred Apostoli, swarthy San Franciscan, has ripped and torn the middle-weight champions of two continents into bleeding, reeling helplessness, and he still has nothing more tangible to show for it than the championship of California.

Some three and a half months ago he scored a technical knockout over bald Marcel Thil, champion of Europe, but Thil's title at the time was stored safely in Paris, along with France's other treasures.

Friday night the former bellhop gave classic Freddie Steele such a savage beating in the Garden that the bout was stopped in the ninth with the American 160-pound king virtually out on his feet.

"I knew I could do it," Apostoli yelled. "I've only lived the last three years to get that guy in the ring. Now if he doesn't give me a title fight I'll claim it anyway."

He might just as well start claiming, for Steele, a wreck of a man as he lay in his dressing room, wouldn't even discuss the possibility of a return encounter with the human machine gun, at any weight. Apostoli was forced to come in Friday night at 161½, so it was no dice. "I'll never fight in this town again," moaned the battered champion as an ice pack was applied to his lower groin, where a wild Apostoli left caught him in the seventh round. "They wouldn't give me half the bandage I needed for my hands."

The low punch alone clouded Apostoli's victory. It clearly was accidental, but it took a lot out of Steele. Referee Arthur Donovan held up the battle fully 10 seconds, an unprecedented action here, until Steele had recovered sufficiently to go on.

UPPER COUNTY TEAMS SCORE DOUBLE WINS

Arendtsville and Biglerville scored double victories in the opening games of the Adams county interscholastic basketball league Friday evening.

Playing at East Berlin the Arendtsville boys swamped their opponents 49-13 while the girls did an even more thorough job by winning, 72-8. Coach Smith's teams led from the start to finish. C. Bushey and Fissel played well for the Arendtsville boys while Kane, M. Raff and Leatherman starred for the girls. Zeigler and I. Jacobs played well for East Berlin.

The Biglerville high courtmen downed Littlestown at Biglerville, the boys winning a snappy game, 26-15, while the girls scored an easy 43-14 decision. Raff was outstanding in the boys' game with Shue and P. Weikert as the stars in the girls' tilt. Ecker played well for the Littlestown boys and Harner was outstanding for the girls.

Next Friday Biglerville plays at Fairfield and East Berlin at Littlestown.

ANSWERING THE LETTER
"ARE you only almost for it?" asked Christopher.

"Well," said Willy Nilly, "there might be trouble. They might be too wild. The lions might roar too much and disturb the neighborhood—they can be heard so far away."

"None of you seems nervous now, but after a while you might not like having wild beasts so close by."

"It would be like having a circus and zoo all winter long," cackled Top Notch. "I wouldn't be afraid."

"Neither would I," quacked Mrs. Quacko, and even the little ducklings quacked: "We wouldn't be afraid."

"I wouldn't be scared. I can tell you that," jawed Christopher. And Rip and Sweet Face felt they wouldn't be frightened now that they thought of their visitors as a private zoo or a circus.

"Then?" questioned Willy Nilly. "Let them come," the Puddle Mudders answered.

Once again they heard the letter and decided if the man was so kind the animals couldn't be too ugly. Then Willy Nilly wrote the letter telling the man his wild animal show could live in Puddle Muddle all winter.

"But," he added, "be sure that you send men to build strong places for them. We are not in any danger of fire in the winter. We are too far off from everything and our woods are covered with snow."

Christopher Columbus Crow flew off to the post-office with the letter in his beak. "I hope I'll be able to understand these animals when they come. My wild animal accent isn't very good," said Willy Nilly.

Monday—"Building."

By George Matthew Adams

DON'T LIE DOWN TO FEAR

WELLINGTON, upon a time, noted a soldier riding into battle, his face white, yet set in courage and determination. "There goes a brave man," said Wellington. "He knows his danger, and faces it."

You can't face danger, or fear, lying down! In any emergency the greatest enemy to conquer is fear.

Those who have pioneered in this world, didn't take fear along with them. Nor did they lie down to it, when encountered. Fear might have been a stowaway on the cruise ship that Columbus sailed away in for his unannounced port, but in the heart of that intrepid sailor there was no room for fear. Adventurers leave fear at home!

We only have ourselves to fear. Once banished from the heart, fear fades away from our view and consciousness. We can then go forward with a sense of peace and confidence, and with the assurance that there is a Supreme Watcher whose eyes never leave us.

In a little volume of poems by J. T. Fields you will find that inspiring short poem called, "Ballad of the Tempest." I can quote a few lines:

"We are lost!" the captain shouted,

As he staggered down the stairs.

"But his little daughter whispered,

As she took his icy hand,

"Isn't God upon the ocean,

Just the same as on the land?"

The result of that brave whisper was that everybody "spoke in better cheer," and they all reached harbor with the sunlight in the sky, clear and blue.

Most of our fears are but those fed and kept alive by the imagination. Our greatest safety lies in our faith. Faith in a Supreme Being, faith in ourselves, and faith in human kind. These troublesome times will have passed when we have routed fear from our hearts. Face all fear standing up—and walk forward, leaving it far behind!

The Characters

Nelda, makes every effort to market her lettuce crop during a strike, even to driving a truck herself.

Bill, is another lettuce farmer. Their common bond draws Nelda and Bill together.

Reck, a wealthy playboy, and Nelda's fiance, considers Nelda's farming a whim.

Mrs. Reckless, Reck's haughty mother, has strangely consented to her son's engagement.

Jack, Nelda's younger brother, is in the hospital with injuries inflicted by picketers.

Chapter 29

"THEY'RE LAYING FOR YOU" That night, the countryside rang with details of the strike activities.

Mass picketing. Driver of truck severely beaten. . . another hit on face by gas bomb and temporarily blinded. Making dormitories of packing sheds for strike breakers.

. . . packing will be carried on in barricaded sheds. Citizens' welfare league being formed. . . strike costing seventy-five thousand dollars daily. . . citizens sworn in as deputies to keep order. . . parley on between shed owners and union. . . no hope of mediation. . .

All of the lettuce did not mature at the same time, so another week would elapse before the next cutting of Nelda's field. She told the family nothing of her intention to drive her truck to the packing shed, for fear they might try to stop her.

Stan, upon hearing of Jack's plight, urged his sister to give up. "Why, there's a lot of people around here who are not trying to market their lettuce!" he said. "It's too dangerous."

She was in no mood for arguments, so she changed the subject. When the day for the next cutting arrived she arose at four-thirty and was out in the field at five-thirty.

The cutters had been there since daylight. They worked only in the early morning so that the lettuce would not be warm when they packed it. They swarmed over the field, a crew of 40 little brown men, looking like goblins.

She reached the packing house and delivered her load without being molested. A small group of pickets who were patrolling the road in front of the barricaded sheds looked amazed upon seeing a girl at the wheel of the truck. She passed them before they recovered enough from their surprise to try to stop her.

On the way home she met Bill who was headed for town with a truck-load of lettuce. They stopped abreast of each other.

"How'm I doing?" she asked pertly. "From the expression on your face you look as if you're don't swell."

"I delivered the first load without a speck of trouble."

"I hope your good luck continues."

"It has to. So long, Bill."

She went to the house to look in on her mother before starting out with the next load and, therefore, lost a little time. Just as she was leaving the field, Bill came along in his empty truck. He waved for her to stop.

"You can't take that in," he said. "Why not?"

"Trouble at the sheds."

"But you delivered yours!"

"Barely did. Listen, Nelda. The strikers think you are a boy dressed up in girl's clothes and they are laying for you."

"Let 'em! I'm going to take this load in or die in the attempt!"

"Of all the obstinate—let me take it in for you."

Exhort to Lettuce

"And you with a crop of your own to deliver! Bill Langdon, you're acting as chivalrous as if you were in love with me."

"Course I'm not!" he returned quickly. "It's only that I hate to see a girl mixed up in this trouble. I don't believe you realize how serious it is."

"Yes, I do. Isn't my brother in the hospital?"

"I'll go with you."

"No, Bill. This is something I'll

"With a force of deputized citizens and highway patrolmen came newspaper reporters and newsreel cameramen. More pickets arrived, too, at a terrific rate of speed."

Then occurred a battle that Nelda would remember for the rest of her life. Pick handles, bats, sticks of every shape and size were swung right and left. Two highway patrolmen clubbed their way to the truck.

"Why didn't you put wire around your cab so they couldn't get at you?" one of them demanded impatiently, and Nelda had the sensation of being caught in a foolish act.

"We didn't know it would be like this," Bill answered.

"Hey, lady! Let me get your picture!" a cameraman yelled at Nelda.

"Oh, no, you won't!" screamed

the fat woman, plunging at his camera and hurling it to the ground. "Atta girl, Liz!" applauded one of her women friends. "Give it to him!"

"There's gonna be some gas bombs let loose to disperse this mob. Better come inside the barricade," one of the officers said to Bill and Nelda.

"Oh, yeah!" sneered the fat woman and planted herself firmly in front of the young pair.

In a flash Nelda was lifted into strong arms. She felt Bill's heart beating tumultuously against her own. He strove to make a way through the crowd, but without success.

No. 23—A Romantic Story

FAR be it from us to attempt to write a love story. Our talents do not appear to run in that direction, and to add to our discomfort the word appears frequently in this column. Even in a graveyard we occasionally run across a story—to be exact a love story. They (the stories) really are quite interesting and we feel that we should make use of the material.

Did you ever visit the Greater Conewago Presbyterian cemetery? No. At that rate you don't know what you've missed, and we advise you to explore this old burial ground at your first opportunity. Here you will find buried Hugh King (1750-May 21, 1811). Hugh King was a lieutenant in the "Flying Camp" during the Revolution, and according to reports was a brave and efficient officer. Along with some other troops from this section he was taken prisoner by the British and imprisoned on Long Island.

From this point the details of this story are somewhat vague, but here is the tale as we have been able to reconstruct it. Lochinvar was a mere shadow compared to the dashing Lieutenant King—and this is what happened.

Prison life is invariably dull and monotonous, even today, and at that time it must have been awful. The British thought the only good patriot was a dead one, and if they died in prison, so much the better, there was one less to feed; and good shot and powder had been saved. From this you should be able to reconstruct a picture of the state of affairs at that time.

The keeper of the prison was an ardent "Tory"—so loyal to the King that he bent over backwards. He considered the prisoners "rebels" and as such he treated them. But love will thrive (at least so we've been told) in war or peace, and this was no exception. Keeper Vorhees had a daughter—a very beautiful girl named Abigail. Her presence, in this bleak place, must have been similar to the much discussed tale of the rose and thorns. Be that as it might—Lieutenant King saw her—and straightway fell in love—at first sight, you understand. Probably his scruples and his conscience were strictly against such a thing, but love is no respecter of persons (again we quote from a higher authority). He was an ardent patriot and she was the daughter of a strict Tory—but of what consequence was so flimsy a barrier in the face of the great emotion. So—the course of events moved on.

In some way he managed to meet and talk to the lovely Abigail—and the first thing you know she too had fallen in love—so the "heaven on earth feeling" appeared to be mutual. However, there still existed many obstacles to be overcome.

TEACHERS ASK EARLE TO CALL EXTRAASSEMBLY

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP)—Another plea for a special session of the Legislature was before Governor Earle today.

The new request came from the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, which claims a membership of 3,000 of the state's 60,000 teachers. The teachers want the General Assembly to increase aid to local school districts by $52,000,000.

Miss Sarah T. Walsh, representing the federation, said all of the teachers' organizations in Philadelphia joined in the request.

She handed a statement to Governor Earle, charging that Chambers of Commerce, real estate groups and the economy league have been "working for years to limit and reduce educational expenditures."

"There are more pupils to the teacher in the state than in 46 other states in the union. More teachers must be appointed."

"School budgets have been reduced greatly. In 1932, receipts for school purposes amounted to $22,000,000. In 1935 receipts fell to $19,000,000. Since 1935, the trend has continued downward. Philadelphia, for example, has experienced a $4,000,000 drop in the yield of real estate taxes."

The state appropriation per year for education is $33,000,000. The teachers contended $52,000,000 more should be provided. They suggested getting the money in this way:

Severance tax on mineral products such as petroleum, natural gas, sandstone, clay products.

An increase in the corporate net income tax rate which is now seven per cent, instead of 10, as it once was.

A measure similar to the Holland bill which was defeated in the 1937 session to tax the property of utilities.

Increase in the estate and inheritance tax, and a gift tax.

A tax on savings banks and trust companies, dividends from stocks and on the unearned increment in land.

Governor Earle will decide probably within the next two weeks whether to call the special session. He has threatened to summon the assembly unless the anthracite coal industry is able to solve its own problems.

Other demands for a special session, have come from some petroleum dealers, who want a commission, patterned after the milk commission, to regulate the oil industry, and from sources seeking changes in recently-enacted labor laws, such as the 44-hour week and workmen's compensation. Relief, facing a $26,000,000 deficit, also may be a factor.

ANSWERING THE LETTER

"ARE you only 'almost' for it?"
asked Christopher.

"Well," said Willy Nilly, "there might be trouble. They might be too wild. The lions might roar too much and disturb the neighborhood
—they can be heard so far away.

"None of you seems nervous now, but after a while you might not like having wild beasts so close by."

"It would be like having a circus and zoo all winter long," cackled Top Notch. "I wouldn't be afraid."

"Neither would I," quacked Mrs.
Quacko, and even the little ducklings quacked: "We wouldn't be afraid."

"I wouldn't be scared. I can tell you that," lawed Christopher. And Rip and Sweet Face felt they wouldn't be frightened now that they thought of their visitors as a private zoo or a circus.

"Then?" questioned Willy Nilly.
"Let them come," the Puddle
Muddlers answered.

Once again they heard the letter and decided if the man was so kind
the animals couldn't be too ugly.
Then Willy Nilly wrote the letter telling the man his wild animal show could live in Puddle Muddle all winter.

"But," he added, "be sure that you send men to build strong places for them. We are not in any danger of fire in the winter. We are too far off from everything and our woods are covered with snow."

Christopher Columbus Crow flew off to the post-office with the letter in his beak. "I hope I'll be able to understand these animals when they come. My wild animal accent isn't very good," said Willy Nilly.

cott in nearly two years is reported single armed, large burglary, theft or swindle.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams—
DON'T LIE DOWN TO FEAR

WELLINGTON, upon a time, noted a soldier riding into battle, his face white, yet set in courage and determination. "There goes a brave man," said Wellington. "He knows his danger, and faces it."

You can't face danger, or fear, lying down! In any emergency the greatest enemy to conquer is fear.

Those who have pioneered in this world, didn't take fear along with them. Nor did they lie down to it, when encountered. Fear might have been a stowaway on the cruise ship that Columbus sailed away in for his unannounced port, but in the heart of that intrepid sailor there was no room for fear. Adventurers leave fear at home!

We only have ourselves to fear. Once banished from the heart, fear fades away from our view and consciousness. We can then go forward with a sense of peace and confidence, and with the assurance that there is a Supreme Watcher whose eyes never leave us.

In a little volume of poems by J. T. Fields you will find that inspiring short poem called, "Ballad of the Tempest." I can quote a few lines:

"We are lost!" the captain shouted,
As he staggered down the stairs.
"But his little daughter whispered,
As she took his icy hand,
Isn't God upon the ocean,
Just the same as on the land?"

The result of that brave whisper was that everybody "spoke in better cheer," and they all reached harbor with the sunlight in the sky, clear and blue.

Most of our fears are but those fed and kept alive by the imagination. Our greatest safety lies in our faith. Faith in a Supreme Being, faith in ourselves, and faith in human kind. These troublesome times will have passed when we have routed fear from our hearts. Face all fear standing up—and walk forward, leaving it far behind!

DARE TO DREAM

By Alice Marie Dodge

The Characters

Nelda, makes every effort to market her lettuce crop during a strike, even to driving a truck herself.

Bill, is another lettuce farmer.
Their common bond draws Nelda and Bill together.

Reck, a wealthy playboy, and Nelda's fiance, considers Nelda's farming a whim.

Mrs. Reckless, Reck's haughty mother, has strangely consented to her son's engagement.

Jack, Nelda's younger brother, is in the hospital with injuries inflicted by picketers.

Chapter 29

"THEY'RE LAYING FOR YOU"
That night the countryside rang with details of the strike activities.
Mass picketing. Driver of truck severely beaten . . . another hit on face by gas bomb and temporarily blinded. Making dormitories of packing sheds for strike breakers
. . . packing will be carried on in barricaded sheds. Citizens' welfare league being formed . . . strike costing seventy-five thousand dollars daily . . . citizens sworn in as deputies to keep order . . . parley on between shed owners and union . . .
no hope of mediation. . .

All of the lettuce did not mature at the same time, so another week would elapse before the next cutting of Nelda's field. She told the family nothing of her intention to drive her truck to the packing shed, for fear
they might try to stop her.

Stan, upon hearing of Jack's plight, urged his sister to give up.
"Why, there's a lot of people around here who are not trying to market their lettuce!" he said. "It's too dangerous."

She was in no mood for arguments,
so she changed the subject.
When the day for the next cutting arrived she arose at four-thirty and was out in the field at five-thirty.
The cutters had been there since daylight. They worked only in the early morning so that the lettuce would not be warm when they packed it. They swarmed over the field, a crew of 40 little brown men, looking like goblins.

She reached the packing house and delivered her load without being molested. A small group of pickets who were patrolling the road in front of the barricaded sheds looked amazed upon seeing a girl at the wheel of the truck. She passed them before they recovered enough from their surprise to try to stop her.

On the way home she met Bill who was headed for town with a truckload of lettuce. They stopped abreast of each other.

"How'm I doing?" she asked pertly.
"From the expression on your face
you look as if you're doing swell."
"I delivered the first load without a speck of trouble."

"I hope your good luck continues."
"It has to. So long, Bill."

She went to the house to look in on her mother before starting out with the next load and, therefore, lost a little time. Just as she was leaving the field, Bill came along in his empty truck. He waved for her to stop.

"You can't take that in," he said.
"Why not?"
"Trouble at the sheds."
"But you delivered yours!"
"Barely did. Listen, Nelda. The strikers think you are a boy dressed up in girl's clothes and they are laying for you."

"Let 'em! I'm going to take this load in or die in the attempt!"
"Of all the obstinate—let me take it in for you."

Escort to Lettuce
"And you with a crop of your own to deliver!" Bill Langdon, you're acting as chivalrous as if you were in love with me."

"Course I'm not!" he returned quickly. "It's only that I hate to see a girl mixed up in this trouble.
I don't believe you realize how serious it is."

"Yes, I do. Isn't my brother in the hospital?"
"I'll go with you."

"No, Bill. This is something I'll have to face for myself."

Besides you've got to get your own crop to the shed, so I might as well—"

"I'm going with you on this trip anyway." He put his foot on the running board. "Move over and let me drive."

"You must haul your own lettuce."
"Stop looking a gift horse in the mouth," he admonished.

"Well—since you insist. But only as escort for this one trip. I'll drive."

He laughed shortly and climbed in beside her.

With a force of deputized citizens and highway patrolmen came newspaper reporters and newsreel cameramen. More pickets arrived, too, at a terrific rate of speed.

Then occurred a battle that Nelda would remember for the rest of her life. Pick handles, bats, sticks of every shape and size were swung right and left. Two highway patrolmen clubbed their way to the truck.

"Why didn't you put wire around your cab so they couldn't get at you?" one of them demanded impatiently, and Nelda had the sensation of being caught in a foolish act.

"We didn't know it would be like this," Bill answered.

"Hey, lady! Let me get your picture!" a cameraman yelled at Nelda.
"Oh, no, you won't!" screamed

No. 23—A Romantic Story

FAR be it from us to attempt to write a love story. Our talents do not appear to run in that direction, and to add to our discomfort the word appears frequently in this column. Even in a graveyard we occasionally run across a story—to be exact a love story. They (the stories) really are quite interesting and we feel that we should make use of the material.

Did you ever visit the Greater Conewago Presbyterian cemetery?
No. At that rate you don't know what you've missed, and we advise you to explore this old burial ground at your first opportunity. Here you will find buried Hugh King (1750-May 21, 1811). Hugh King was a lieutenant in the "Flying Camp"
during the Revolution, and according to reports was a brave and efficient officer. Along with some other troops from this section he was taken prisoner by the British and imprisoned on Long Island.

From this point the details of this story are somewhat vague, but here is the tale as we have been able to reconstruct it. Lochinvar was a mere shadow compared to the dashing Lieutenant King—and this is what happened.

Prison life is invariably dull and monotonous, even today, and at that time it must have been awful.
The British thought the only good patriot was a dead one, and if they died in prison, so much the better, there was one less to feed, and good shot and powder had been saved.

From this you should be able to reconstruct a picture of the state of affairs at that time.

The keeper of the prison was an ardent "Tory"—so loyal to the King that he bent over backwards. He considered the prisoners "rebels" and as such he treated them. But love will thrive at least so we've been told) in war or peace, and this was no exception. Keeper Vorhees had a daughter—a very beautiful girl named Abigail. Her presence, in this bleak place, must have been similar to the much discussed tale of the rose and thorns. Be that as it might—Lieutenant King saw her —and straightway fell in love—at first sight, you understand. Probably his scruples and his conscience were strictly against such a thing, but love is no respecter of persons (again we quote from a higher authority). He was an ardent patriot and she was the daughter of a strict Tory—but of what consequence was so flimsy a barrier in the face of the great emotion. So—the course of events moved on.

In some way he managed to meet and talk to the lovely Abigail—and the first thing you know she too had fallen in love—so the "heaven on earth feeling" appeared to be mutual. However, there still existed many obstacles to be overcome.

the fat woman, plunging at his camera and hurling it to the ground.
"Atta girl, Liz!" applauded one of her women friends. "Give it to him!"
"There's gonna be some gas bombs
let loose to disperse this mob.
Better come inside the barricade," one of the officers said to Bill and Nelda.

"Oh, yeah!" sneered the fat woman and planted herself firmly in front of the young pair.

In a flash Nelda was lifted into strong arms. She felt Bill's heart beating tumultuously against her own. He strove to make a way through the crowd, but without success.

Nelda meets the Reckless family in the midst of tear gas, Monday.

Parental objections loomed large on the list, and even if Father Vorhees' consent was asked—his answer was sure to be—No! Quite emphatically!

In the meantime an exchange of prisoners had been arranged and Hugh King was one of those listed for exchange. From this we gather that he parted from the fair Abigail —and returned to his regiment in Washington's army. For three more years the war dragged on—and the gallant lieutenant had plenty of time to form other attachments—but he appears to have remained true to his first love. At any rate he returned to Long Island in 1780, and on October 26, 1780, he married Miss Abigail Vorhees. We don't know how they overcame father Vorhees' objections, perhaps he had died in the interval or else changed his politics. At any rate they were married—and I suppose we should say that "they lived happily ever after"

—but there is still more to tell.
Lieutenant King brought his bride back to his home in this county.
Here they lived for the remainder of their lives, and here was born their ten children. At their death, they were buried in Greater Conewago cemetery—and there you will find them—the principals in as thrilling a love story as you would care to read.

TEACHERS ASK
EARLE TO CALL
EXTRAASSEMBLY

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP)—Another plea for a special session of the Legislature was before Governor
Earle today.

The new request came from the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, which claims a membership of 3,000 of the state's 60,000 teachers. The teachers want the General Assembly to increase aid to local school districts by $52,000,000.

Miss Sarah T. Walsh, representing the federation, said all of the teachers' organizations in Philadelphia joined in the request.

She handed a statement to Governor Earle, charging that Chambers of Commerce, real estate groups and the economy league have been "working for years to limit and reduce educational expenditures."

"There are more pupils to the teacher in the state than in 46 other states in the union. More teachers must be appointed.

More Firms Ask to Join "44-Hour" Attack

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP)—Opposition piled up today to Pennsylvania's 44-hour work law which was scheduled to be effective December 1.

Ten Pittsburgh stores and restaurants, a gas company and the United Cigar-Whelan stores corporation asked the Dauphin county court Friday for permission to join nearly 200 other firms in a court fight to prevent the law's enforcement.

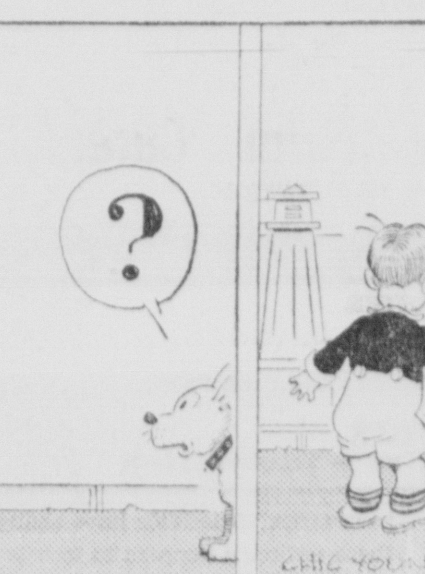

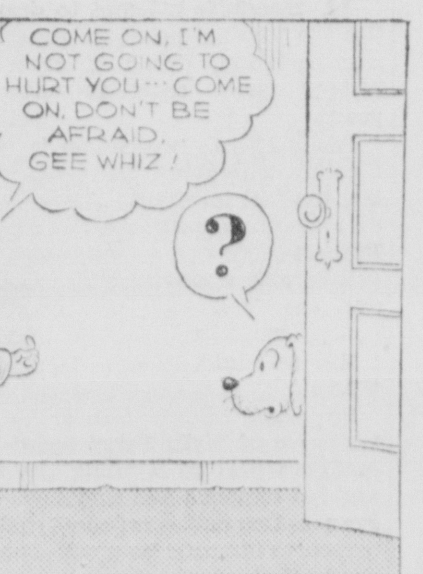

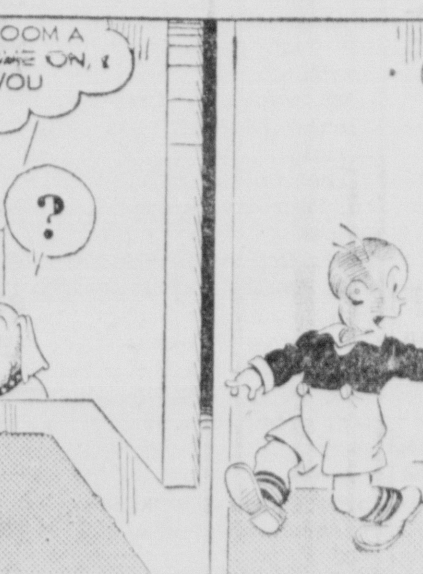

The Holgate Manufacturing company of Kane, brought the first suit—designed to test the law's constitutionality. The fight will go before the state Supreme court.

MUMMERS OFFER DELAYED PARADE

Philadelphia, Jan. 8 (AP)—The gaudy ranks of mummy, 10,000 strong, formed today under clearing skies for their parade—a belated greeting to the new year.

The parade, which at the turn of the century grew out of scattered celebrations by the rival mummy clubs, was postponed New Year's Day.

At that time the elaborately costumed mummies were greeted by murky skies which obscured the giant statue of William Penn atop city hall and scattered the patient crowds with rain.

George B. McClelland, parade director, said if the clubs marched,

IT'S ODD
But It's Science
(By The Associated Press)

New York (AP).—The club life of the grasshopper has been discovered by John S. Kennedy of the British Museum.

This club life of the grasshopper is probably the long-sought starting place for the destroying locusts—the swarms of flying hoppers which have been intermittent scourges beginning with Biblical narrative.

Ordinary looking grasshoppers turn black, take on the distinctive markings of the destroying locusts, acquire voracious appetites, lose their liking for solitary life and fly in swarms. Scientists have changed these ordinary hoppers to locusts by merely breeding them in crowded cages, and have changed the destroyers back again by breeding in solitary cages.

But where in nature, do the hoppers get together, to strike up a mob life? Mr. Kennedy thinks he found the places in sunny bare spots in millet fields in the Sudan. There he saw solitary hoppers gathering daily like clubmen to bask in warmth.

NINE MADE TWENTY
Tuscaloosa, Ala. (AP).—Only 20 points were scored against Alabama during the nine-game 1937 season and no team made more than one touchdown. Tennessee, acquire voracious appetites, lose their liking for solitary life and fly in swarms.

AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

Director James Tinling had spent fifteen unsuccessful minutes rearranging lights so that Jane's nose would not appear shiny in one of the picture's scenes. As a last resort, he called the makeup man and had him powder her nose.

When the powder had been applied, Jane jumped to her feet and exclaimed with glee:

"Hurray! At last I'm wearing make-up!"

Thomas Beck, Louise Henry and the Hartmans, satirical dancers, are featured in "45 Fathers." John Stone served as associate producer.

Walter Connolly, acquiring a racing stable, hasn't decided on a name for his newest yearling. . . Connolly usually combines names of sire and dam for his pets, but this one came from Shasta Night and Nocturnal. . . And Walter won't consider the name that keeps popping into his mind. . . Nighty Night.

"THOROUGHBREDS DON'T CRY" is what its title implies—a good, hokey yarn about kids and horseracing. The boys are Mickey Rooney, who plays the tough well-headed little American jockey, and Ronald Sinclair (pinch-hitting for Freddie Bartholomew), who is the little English gentleman whose granddaddy (C. Aubrey Smith) has a horse. After giving each other black eyes, Mickey and Ronnie become fast friends, but Mickey is tricked into throwing a race.

The results are fairly calamitous, but little Ronnie comes through and everybody's happy. Judy Garland and Sophie Tucker help things along, and it's all done so sincerely that the big race in the end—photographed as few races have been—becomes quite as thrilling as it's supposed to be. Alfred Green directed and the picture will be seen at the Majestic next Wednesday.

Bing Crosby and Andy Devine were working in a zoo sequence of "Doctor Rhythm" at Major Studio. Beatrice Lillie and Mary Carlisle weren't on the call sheet today, but they came down anyway to have a look at the animals.

Between takes, Mary got a glimpse of a convict-striped zebra through some shrubbery. What's that? she asked. Replied Miss Lillie: "Looks like a fugitive from a mule team."

IT HAS finally happened—Gordon Hart, who was once pastor of the First Congregational church in Walla Walla, Washington, is for the first time playing a minister on the screen. He is the medical missionary in Warner Brothers' "West of Shanghai" which comes to the Majestic theater on Thursday.

Until he was cast in "West of Shanghai," Hart never portrayed a minister. Last year he appeared in 36 pictures and not once did he wear the cloth. He played judges, lawyers, mayors, crooks, doctors—everything but parsons.

Hart left the pulpit some years ago to become an actor. He was "discovered" by Warner Brothers' studio in the Pasadena Playhouse production of "Yellow Jack."

"West of Shanghai" co-stars Boris Karloff and Beverly Roberts.

The admission price for children at the Majestic has been reduced from fifteen cents to ten cents for all show excepting Saturday evening, the management announced recently.

"WELLS FARGO" is a commendable attempt to dramatize the stirring history of American transportation, which is America's history during some 40 turbulent years.

Frank Lloyd's production is spectacular, embracing the gold rush era, the first telegraph, covered wagon and pony express days, early San Francisco life and a bank panic, together with a smattering of politics and the Civil war, with word-of-mouth excursion into the Mexican fringes and brief view of Lola Montez.

So much history strung on the narrative of Wells Fargo agent Joel McCrea's part in winning the west and his romance and marriage with Frances Dee makes for some exciting sequences but interferes with the desired effect of sustained drama.

Bob Burns as Joel's pioneer pal is on hand with his customary drawled observations. Mary Nash, Ralph Morgan, Henry O'Neill, Lloyd Nolan, Johnny Mack Brown and many others contribute to the picture which comes to the Majestic next Friday and Saturday.

Tyrone Power has been chosen to portray a leading part in "Marie Antoinette," the next starring vehicle for Norma Shearer.

MUSICALS will predominate among the offerings at the Majestic theatre during the week of January 17. Here is the schedule: Monday and Tuesday—"You're a

"Sweetheart," with Alice Faye and George Murphy.

Wednesday—"Love and Hises," with Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie.

Thursday—"Night Club Scandal," with Lynne Overman and John Barrymore.

Friday and Saturday—"Rosalia," with Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell.

SEEK CHANNEL TO SEA

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—Philadelphia's congressional delegation will seek the approval of the board of army engineers for a 40-foot Delaware river channel from Philadelphia to the sea. ## Roosevelt's Speech Tonight May Effect Business Future

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt's Jackson Day dinner speech tonight may clarify administration policy as to future government relations with business.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no hint of what subject he intends to take, but there was speculation that he might decide it was a fitting occasion for further enunciation of his views toward business.

It was recalled that in his message to Congress last Monday he said while discussing monopoly: "The work undertaken by Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson is not finished yet."

The past two weeks admittedly left industrial leaders confused despite the evidence of a conciliatory attitude most observers found in the President's two messages to Congress and recent press conference statements.

This uncertainty was attested Friday by Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and company, in testimony before the Senate unemployment committee.

Wood said the President's opening message to Congress had been "reassuring," but that "business doesn't know what to expect" in view of previous speeches by Secretary Ickes and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson. In harsh language, Ickes and Jackson accused business of going "on strike" against the government.

Asked by Chairman Byrnes (D-SC), if he would not be more inclined to accept the President's statement, Wood replied in the affirmative, but indicated he still had doubts about the administration's attitude toward business.

One point on which many expressed a desire for clarification was the President's press conference suggestion for round table discussions between business and government to plan production.

The general idea of business-government discussions, however, has been widely approved.

Senator Byrnes said today he believed "friendly" conferences would help materially in solving the unemployment problem and in promoting a business upturn.

Senator Davis (R-Pa.) added, in a radio speech, a call for discussions which would give the government "the benefit of labor and business brains" in attacking the recession.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said public sentiment was growing more favorable toward his bill to license corporations doing interstate business, as a curb on monopoly.

"We are gradually making it clear to the country," he said, "that the purpose is not to broaden government meddling, but to eradicate it by adopting the principle of government by law instead of by men."

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP).—Resignation of a member of the state public assistance board stirred today Pennsylvania's prolonged squabble over administration of relief.

Earl G. Harrison, of Philadelphia, announced Friday night in a letter to Governor George H. Earle that he was quitting the board as a defense of the action of Karl De Schweinitz in giving up his post as secretary of Public Assistance.

"In the opinion of a great many public-minded people throughout the state," Harrison wrote, "the De Schweinitz letter was a forthright statement as to why he could not continue in the situation which had been created and permitted to develop and which from the standpoint of good administration was intolerable."

De Schweinitz resigned, Harrison asserted, for two reasons:

lutely non-political' relief administration and pleasing the politicians. "Second, x x x his conviction that those appointments together with prior actions x x x indicated that you as Chief Executive, were not giving him and his department the kind of support necessary to the doing of a good job."

Harrison said his resignation and statement also were an answer to a telegram that Dean Herbert F. Goodrich of the University of Pennsylvania law school, sent to the Governor calling De Schweinitz parting thrust at the governor "ill-advised and senseless."

Goodrich headed the committee which evolved the new set-up for relief administration.

Arthur W. Howe, Jr., moved over Friday from the Welfare department to take the post De Schweinitz vacated.

Earle said these "fundamental changes" must be made.

"First of all—Relief must be administered on the basis of economic necessity and economic necessity alone. In the past the relief administration has devoted itself in too great a degree to the study of relief as a sociological problem."

"Secondly—There must be the maximum of business efficiency in relief administration."

COURT TEAMS SUSPENDED

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 8 (AP).—Varsity and reserve basketball teams at Ashley high school were under suspension today because of a strike demanding reinstatement of Richard Murphy as coach. Members of both teams gathered outside Pittston high school Friday night, but refused to play two games scheduled with Pittston. The games were forfeited and money was returned to fans.

I am an advertising man

FOR over thirty years I have been writing advertisements for national advertisers—shoes, soap, cereals, automobiles, radios, tobacco, blankets, tooth-powder.

To me it is the most fascinating work in the world—learning about the merits of merchandise and then telling people about them—bringing greater comfort, and enjoyment, into people's lives — introducing people to new pleasures, helping them to get the most for their money.

Besides being fascinating, it is satisfying. My intimate experience with advertisers has shown me that, except for rare exceptions, the manufacturers and merchants of this nation lean over backwards to be sincere and honest.

The law of advertising is simple once one understands its working—the more people know about the merit of a product, the more people buy it. The greater the volume of sales, the less the cost to manufacture. Savings in making mean either lower prices to the consumer or greater value put back into the merchandise.

As an advertising man I can sincerely affirm that it pays to read the advertisements in the newspapers—for news of new things, for news of bargains and savings.

There are thousands of other men—and women—devoting their lives to advertising writing, who will tell you the same thing. They know!

IT'S ODD

But It's Science
(By The Associated Press)

New York (AP).—The club life of the grasshopper has been discovered by John S. Kennedy of the British Museum.

This club life of the grasshopper is probably the long-sought starting place for the destroying locusts—the swarms of flying hoppers which have been intermittent scourges beginning with Biblical narrative.

Ordinary looking grasshoppers turn black, take on the distinctive markings of the destroying locust, acquire voracious appetites, lose their liking for solitary life and fly in swarms. Scientists have changed these ordinary hoppers to locusts by merely breeding them in crowded cages, and have changed the destroyers back again by breeding in solitary cages.

But where in nature, do the hoppers get together to strike up a mob life? Mr. Kennedy thinks he found the places in sunny bare spots in millet fields in the Sudan. There he saw solitary hoppers gathering daily like clubmen to bask in warmth.

ON THE AISLE

*** **

Director James Tinling had spent fifteen unsuccessful minutes rearranging lights so that Jane's nose would not appear shiny in one of the picture's scenes. As a last resort, he called the makeup man and had him powder her nose.

When the powder had been applied, Jane jumped to her feet and exclaimed with glee:

"Hurray! At last I'm wearing make-up!"

Thomas Beck, Louise Henry and the Hartmans, satirical dancers, are featured in "45 Fathers." John Stone served as associate producer.

Walter Connolly, acquiring a racing stable, hasn't decided on a name for his newest yearling. . . . Connolly usually combines names of sire and dam for his pets, but this one came from Shasta Night and Nocturnal. . . . And Walter won't consider the name that keeps popping into his mind. . . . Nighty Night.

"THOROUGHBREDS DONT CRY" is what its title implies—a good, hokey yarn about kids and horseracing. The boys are Mickey Rooney, who plays the tough swelled little American jockey, and Ronald Sinclair (pinch-hitting for Freddie Bartholomew), who is the little English gentleman whose granddaddy (C. Aubrey Smith) has a horse. After giving each other black eyes, Mickey and Ronnie become fast friends, but Mickey is tricked into throwing a race.

The results are fairly calamitous, but little Ronnie comes through and everybody's happy. Judy Garland and Sophie Tucker help things along, and it's all done so sincerely that the big race in the end—photographed as few races have been—becomes quite as thrilling as it's supposed to be. Alfred Green directed and the picture will be seen at the Majestic next Wednesday.

Bing Crosby and Andy Devine were working in a zoo sequence of "Doctor Rhythm" at Major Studio. Beatrice Lillie and Mary Carlisle weren't on the call sheet today, but they came down anyway to have a look at the animals.

Between takes, Mary got a glimpse of a convict-striped zebra through some shrubbery. What's that?" she asked. Replied Miss Lillie: "Looks like a fugitive from a mule team."

IT HAS finally happened—Gordon Hart, who was once pastor of the First Congregational church in Walla Walla, Washington, is for the first time playing a minister on the screen. He is the medical missionary in Warner Brothers' "West of Shanghai" which comes to the Majestic theater on Thursday.

Until he was cast in "West of Shanghai," Hart never portrayed a minister. Last year he appeared in 36 pictures and not once did he wear the cloth. He played judges, lawyers, mayors, crooks, doctors—everything but parsons.

Hart left the pulpit some years ago to become an actor. He was "discovered" by Warner Brothers' studio in the Pasadena Playhouse production of "Yellow Jack."

"West of Shanghai" co-stars Boris Karloff and Beverly Roberts.

The admission price for children at the Majestic has been reduced from fifteen cents to ten cents for all show excepting Saturday evening, the management announced recently.

"WELLS FARGO" is a commendable attempt to dramatize the stirring history of American transportation, which is America's history during some 40 turbulent years.

Frank Lloyd's production is spectacular, embracing the gold rush era, the first telegraph, covered wagon and pony express days, early San Francisco life and a bank panic, together with a smattering of politics and the Civil war, with word-of-mouth excursion into the Mexican fracas and brief view of Lola Montez.

So much history strung on the narrative of Wells Fargo agent Joel McCrea's part in winning the west and his romance and marriage with Frances Dee makes for some exciting sequences but interferes with the desired effect of sustained drama.

Bob Burns as Joel's pioneer pal is on hand with his customary drawled observations. Mary Nash, Ralph Morgan, Henry O'Neill, Lloyd Nolan, Johnny Mack Brown and many others contribute to the picture which comes to the Majestic next Friday and Saturday.

Tyrone Power has been chosen to portray a leading part in "Marie Antoinette," the next starring vehicle for Norma Shearer.

MUSICALS will predominate among the offerings at the Majestic theatre during the week of January 17. Here is the schedule: Monday and Tuesday—"You're a Sweetheart," with Alice Faye and George Murphy.

Wednesday—"Love and Hisses," with Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie.

Thursday—"Night Club Scandal," with Lynne Overman and John Barrymore.

Friday and Saturday—"Rosalie," with Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell.

YORK MAN NAMED TO HEAD SHRINE

Charles A. Sullenberger, of York, a former resident of Harrisburg, was elected illustrious potentate of Zemo Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at the annual meeting of the organization last night at the Mosque in Harrisburg.

Other Harrisburg officers who were elected are the following: Chief rabban, State Senator George Kunkel; assistant rabban, W. Stewart Taylor; high priest and prophet, Ray D. Snow; oriental guide, Elmer W. Ehler; trustee, Benjamin Strouse, re-elected; representatives to the Imperial council to be held in California; Judge Karl E. Richards, retiring illustrious potentate; Charles A. Sullenberger, Edward Miller and Harvey Selter.

SEEK CHANNEL TO SEA

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—Philadelphia's congressional delegation will seek the approval of the board of army engineers for a 40-foot Delaware river channel from Philadelphia to the sea. The board will review the channel deepening proposal Monday. More than a month ago the engineers announced the evidence at hand did not warrant an expenditure of $18,000,000 on the project.

Roosevelt's Speech Tonight May Effect Business Future

Washington, Jan. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt's Jackson Day dinner speech tonight may clarify administration policy as to future government relations with business.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no hint of what subject he intends to take, but there was speculation that he might decide it was a fitting occasion for further enunciation of his views toward business.

It was recalled that in his message to Congress last Monday he said while discussing monopoly: "The work undertaken by Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson is not finished yet."

The past two weeks admittedly left industrial leaders confused despite the evidence of a conciliatory attitude most observers found in the President's two messages to Congress and recent press conference statements.

This uncertainty was attested Friday by Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and company, in testimony before the Senate unemployment committee.

Wood said the President's opening message to Congress had been "reassuring," but that "business doesn't know what to expect" in view of previous speeches by Secretary Ickes and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson. In harsh language, Ickes and Jackson accused business of going "on strike" against the government.

Asked by Chairman Byrnes (D-SC), if he would not be more inclined to accept the President's statement, Wood replied in the affirmative, but indicated he still had doubts about the administration's attitude toward business.

One point on which many expressed a desire for clarification was the President's press conference suggestion for round table discussions between business and government to plan production.

The general idea of business-government discussions, however, has been widely approved.

Senator Byrnes said today he believed "friendly" conferences would help materially in solving the unemployment problem and in promoting a business upturn.

Senator Davis (R-Pa.) added, in a radio speech, a call for discussions which would give the government "the benefit of labor and business brains" in attacking the recession.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said public sentiment was growing more favorable toward his bill to license corporations doing interstate business, as a curb on monopoly.

"We are gradually making it clear to the country," he said, "that the purpose is not to broaden government meddling, but to eradicate it by adopting the principle of government by law instead of by men."

Arthur W. Howe, Jr., moved over Friday from the Welfare department to take the post De Schweinitz vacated.

Earle said these "fundamental changes" must be made.

"First of all—Relief must be administered on the basis of economic necessity and economic necessity alone. In the past the relief administration has devoted itself in too great a degree to the study of relief as a sociological problem."

"Secondly—There must be the maximum of business efficiency in relief administration."

Harrisburg, Jan. 8 (AP).—Resignation of a member of the state public assistance board stirred anew today Pennsylvania's prolonged squabble over administration of relief.

Earl G. Harrison, of Philadelphia, announced Friday night in a letter to Governor George H. Earle that he was quitting the board as a defense of the action of Karl De Schweinitz in giving up his post as secretary of Public Assistance.

"In the opinion of a great many public-minded people throughout the state," Harrison wrote, "the De Schweinitz letter was a forthright statement as to why he could not continue in the situation which had been created and permitted to develop and which from the standpoint of good administration was intolerable."

De Schweinitz resigned, Harrison asserted, for two reasons:

"First, your recent appointments to county assistance boards throughout the state was proof positive of an effort to straddle between 'absolutely non-political' relief administration and pleasing the politicians."

"Second, x x x his conviction that those appointments together with prior actions x x x indicated that you as Chief Executive, were not giving him and his department the kind of support necessary to the doing of a good job."

Harrison said his resignation and statement also were an answer to a telegram that Dean Herbert F. Goodrich of the University of Pennsylvania law school, sent to the Governor calling De Schweinitz parting thrust at the governor "ill-advised and senseless."

Goodrich headed the committee which evolved the new set-up for relief administration.

Arthur W. Howe, Jr., moved over Friday from the Welfare department to take the post De Schweinitz vacated.
